Edward W. Gardner, veteran billiard player, won the national amateur title at the Arion Society, 400 to 361. The victor kept Gardner's title for the fifth time when he defeated Morris D. Brown of Brooklyn last night at the Arion Society, 400 to 361.

The match was not up to class A form. In fact, there was very little of the kind of good billiards shown in the contest. The two rivals had met in many other struggles, and with each the main object was to keep the other from scoring. This special contest was the first in which the winner averaged only 24.52, with high runs of 49, 48 and 20, while Brown averaged 34.45, with clusters of 55, 53 and 31. It took the victor just a few minutes short of five hours to complete their struggle.

One of the bright spots in the game was Brown's run of 38 in the forty-third inning, which brought him to 359, a half century away from the goal and only 22 points behind Gardner. Those who had seen Gardner and Brown play in the previous amateur championship tourney of 1914 had visions of another such finish by the Brooklyn player.

But Brown came up from behind and missed winning only by a hair. Last night he did not get as near to victory, for when he seemed to have the running right he missed on a short draw off the cushion. Gardner gave him a couple of more chances, but the Brooklyn player could not take advantage of them.

During the early stages of the game the lead drifted from one to the other, but neither of the players was far from the front. Gardner played more safety than his rival in the early stages of the game and forced Brown to make many a difficult shot.

Starting in the twenty-fifth inning Gardner collected 36 in three turns at the table. This gave him a comfortable lead and Brown stuck along through the session, but in the next fourteen innings the Brooklyn player was confronted with numerous snafus which he was unable to overcome. At the end of the forty-fifth inning he was 361 points behind Gardner, and at the end of the forty-eighth, when he made his run of 28, that he gave any further indication of making Gardner work for the title.

WILLARD GETS A NEW BIG SPARRING PARTNER

Al Reich Joins Training Camp To-day and Champion Will Extend His Boxing to Eight or Ten Rounds

REICH JOINS TRAINING CAMP

A new schedule of training for Champion Willard goes into effect at the Pioneer Sporting Club this afternoon. Al Reich, next to Frank Moran probably the most seriously considered white heavyweight contender, will be the first to join the staff of boxers who are helping to box Willard into shape.

Willard has maintained from the start that he would be prepared to put in two strenuous weeks of boxing before going into the ring to defend the title for the first time. If he adheres to this policy he must commence this afternoon to add a few rounds to his programme. For the first time since he won the title today he will have a sparring partner.

Reich would have gone on yesterday. He offered his services free. But owing to the illness of Tom Jones, there has been more or less uncertainty among the Willard handlers of changing a schedule which has been so beneficial to the champion. However, Willard intends to box with him all week—George Rodol, Monahan and Hemple. Necessarily his customary six rounds an afternoon.

FIVE YANKEES LONG HITS FEATURE

Maisel, Hartzell, Boone, Pich and Baker Suffering From Minor Ills.

GILHOOLEY PEGS WELL

MAISON, Ga., March 10.—Fritz Maisel, Roy Hartzell and Lute Boone were all laid up with minor ills to-day and Manager Donovan had to revise the makeup of his Yankee team for the practice game. Maisel's legs are lame, Hartzell's foot is lame and Boone's throat is sore. Pich, just recovering from a sore throat, and Baker, with his injured hand, but otherwise lively as a cricket—two or three crickets, in fact—complete the list of casualties.

The second team had a different outlook to-day. Brown, Hendrix and Layden were the pitchers, and had Aragon at third and Mullen at second, and the first team, 1 to 0, in a six inning game.

It was a close battle, but the pitching was so good on both sides that there was no prospect for more scoring, and a few little prospects for team A to win a full nine inning game. Good batting was had at a premium since the Yankees came here, and to-day was raw and windy before the rain.

Team A was constituted as usual, except that Miller was in centre and Baumann at third. High and Cook of the outfield corps had a day off from practice, but from battle. Alexander drove a line home run over the left field fence in the third inning, and to-day's scoring market opened and closed right there.

NORWEGIAN GIRL SCORES TWO VICTORIES AT NETS

Miss Bjurstedt, Despite Mediocre Playing, Advances in Singles, and With Mrs. Schmitz as Partner, Wins Doubles Tourney at Heights Casino.

MISS BJURSTEDT, DESPITE MEDIOCRE PLAYING, ADVANCES IN SINGLES

Miss Molla Bjurstedt, national champion, and Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, former indoor champion, carried off every trophy possible in the invitation tennis tournament yesterday at the Heights Casino, Brooklyn. The pair teamed up and won the doubles, defeating Miss Florence Ballin and Mrs. Spencer Bulterton Weaver, in the final round in straight sets at 6-2, 6-0, and playing separately they reached the final round in the singles, in which they will be opposed this afternoon.

Miss Bjurstedt vanquished Miss Ballin in the upper half at 6-4, 6-2, while in the lower half Mrs. Schmitz defeated Miss Alberta Weber at 6-4, 6-4. Mrs. Schmitz was the first player to win a victory over Miss Bjurstedt in this country.

Miss Bjurstedt did not play a game of championship calibre in either the singles or doubles. It was her opponent's lack of skill that was the cause of her victory. The doubles were chiefly remarkable for the lack of team work by both of the teams. Miss Ballin played better tennis than she had in the singles, but Mrs. Weaver was not up to her usual game, which helped the Miss Bjurstedts.

KERRIGAN IN TIE WITH McDONALD

Stwanoy and Buffalo Pros Lead With 145 in Florida Tourney.

ANOTHER TIE FOR THIRD

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 10.—Tom Kerrigan of Stwanoy and Bob McDonald of Buffalo were tied for the lead when the first half of the open golf tourney at the Florida Country Club ended this afternoon. Each had a score of 145 for the 36 holes, Kerrigan being 73-72 and McDonald's 70-75. There was another tie for third place between MacDonald Smith, the new west coast champion, and George Bowden of Toledo. They were four strokes behind the leaders.

McDonald and MacDonald Smith began the day in the style. Each made the round in 70, and after the course record McDonald's score was 36, 34-70 and Smith's 37, 33-70. Both fell off in the afternoon, McDonald's mistakes coming just often enough to allow Kerrigan to catch up, and Smith's coming so often that his afternoon score was just ten strokes behind Kerrigan's.

The course is an easy one for the player who keeps on the line, but the numerous traps are so well placed that few had spots escape. Kerrigan made a simple affair to him earlier in the day because a long succession of bunkers in the rough made it difficult to get by running down three long putts on the outward journey. On the first, fifth and eighth greens he holed out from fifteen to twenty feet away, getting a 3 in each instance. He was out in 36 and came home in 37, for a 73, which put him four strokes behind Kerrigan and McDonald.

The four leaders played together in the afternoon, and all played better than in the morning. Kerrigan led out and played the last nine holes in 32. He just missed a long putt from the edge of the green for a 2, which would have put him in the lead if it had gone down.

K. L. Ames, better known as Snake, Chicago, finished with 157. The remaining 26 holes will be played to-morrow. The summary:

Tom Kerrigan, Stwanoy, 73-72-145; Bob McDonald, Buffalo, 70-75-145; MacDonald Smith, Toledo, 73-72-145; George Bowden, Toledo, 73-72-145.
